Company floats duck boats proposal

Chicago River cruises on the amphibious vessels could start in the summer

Chicago Tribune

Duck boat tours could be coming to the Chicago River as soon as this summer.

Entertainment Cruises, a cruise operator based at Navy Pier, submitted a proposal to conduct tours using the wheeled boats, which run on land and water. The company operates more than 30 vessels in cities across the country.

"With this you get the best of both worlds," said Dan Russell, vice president and general manager for Entertainment Cruises. "It showcases all of the best that Chicago has, which is formidable, obviously. We think it will be a fun package."

Duck boats do not look like ducks. The bulky amphibious vessels were used by the U.S. military in World War II. Since then, duck boat tours have gained popularity in places like Boston, Seattle and the Wisconsin Dells. The Boston tours have served as a model for Chicago, Russell said.

Chicago had a duck boat tour service in the late 1990s, but it was discontinued. Chicago Duck Tours' bright yellow boats cruised the streets, then splashed into Lake Michigan at Burnham Harbor.

Construction for the new duck boat endeavor could begin as soon as Jan. 28, when the review process by state regulators is scheduled to be completed, Russell said.

The boats, which hold 37 passengers, require special ramps to enter and exit the Chicago River. Under the proposal, the ramps would be constructed at Marina Towers and West Polk Street. The Marina Towers ramp would be 25 feet wide by 73 feet long, and the West Polk Street ramp would be 20 feet by 73 feet. The latter would be constructed by modifying an abutment at the former Polk Street Bridge, Russell said.

The proposal for the project was submitted in November and must be signed off on by state regulators, including the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, and also the Army Corps of Engineers. It has received approval from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Permits also must be obtained from the city and Marina Towers. City officials and Marina Towers officials could not be reached for comment.

"I don't see anything foreseeable in nature holding this up, Russell said. "Our hope is to have a partial season for 2015 and our first full inaugural season in 2016."

Duck boats, like the one above in the Wisconsin Dells, could start making waves with tourists and sightseers this summer on the Chicago River. TRIBUNE

Andrew Sargis, chief of operations for Chicago Water Taxi, which runs boats on the river, said the project aligns with a new push toward making the Chicago River a hot spot for recreation and tourism.

"We are all for it," he said. "There really isn't any concern. We want to grow the river community, and Entertainment Cruises has a great reputation."

Sargis noted that the Chicago Harbor Safety Committee convenes regularly to discuss issues on the river, and the boat tour companies communicate regularly.

"I'm not anticipating any challenges," Sargis said. "It seems like a great idea and a good draw for tourists."

Tourists agree. JP and Mary Bordeleau, visiting from Halifax, Nova Scotia, said they recently took a duck boat tour in their hometown and loved it.

"You get to see the city from all sides," Mary Bordeleau said. "We learned so much about the city we live in. Even Chicagoans would learn on one of them."

MIGHTY DUCKS

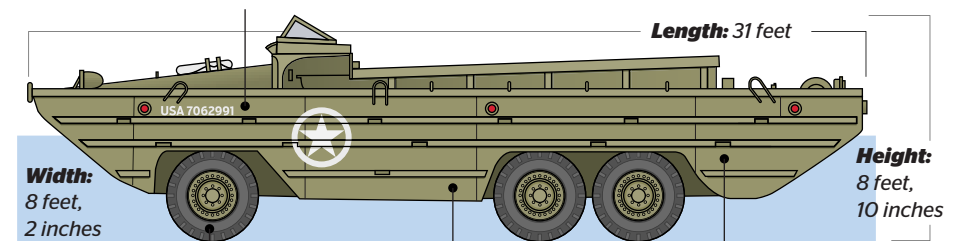

A Chicago cruise company has proposed using amphibious duck boats to give Chicago River tours. The massive World War II-era vehicles have enjoyed a renaissance of sorts, with the vehicles being restored and retrofitted to give tourists rides around the world.

DUCK IS SHORTHAND FOR:

D The model year, 1942 U Body style, utility K Stands for all-wheel drive W Represents dual rear axles

SPECIFICATIONS

Weight: 14,880 lbs. Max land speed: 50 mph Manufactured: Based on the GMC cargo truck at the time, more than 20,000 were built during World War II.

Facebook changed its privacy settings for the New Year and, just like used Pontiacs at Crazy Harry's Autos, they practically are giving your personal information away.

There is absolutely nothing stopping soulless companies, advertisers, perverts, ISIS, Lex Luthor, etc. from using your hilarious weather-based status updates for nefarious purposes.

Until now!

Here are the steps you must take to ensure that the only ones running their Face-fingers through your Facebook are your most trusted friends, family members, old classmates, casual acquaintances, Superman, random hookups, etc.

THE LEGAL STATEMENT

Many people have been copying and pasting a legal statement that looks like this:

"As of Jan. 7, 2015 at 10:50 a.m. eastern time, I do not give Facebook or any entities associated with Facebook permission to use my pictures, information, posts, muffin recipes or Candy Crush strategies ..."

They believe that by posting this statement on their Facebook walls, it makes it illegal to use their data. Ridiculous.

It's not an official legal document ... not until you sign it with your full name, home address, social security number, a picture of a canceled check, a please and a thank you. Then you're bulletproof.

BE CAREFUL DOWNLOADING APPS

Many games will ask permission to access your entire account before they use them.

Is it worth giving advertisers your power of attorney just so you can take a quiz to see which "Harry Potter" character you are? That is such a Ron thing to do.

CHANGE YOUR SECURITY SETTINGS

You have a few options. You can either set them to "Public," "Friends," "Close Friends," "Distant Friends," "The Cast of 'Friends'," "Family," "Not Aunt Sarah," "Only Attractive People" or "Only _____ People" (where you fill in the blank with your preferred political party/ethnicity/religion).

This last option will save you the trouble of unfriending people who disagree with you about major world events or learning about any pesky different points of view.

GUARD YOUR MESSAGES

To prevent Facebook employees from reading your private conversations, make sure every sentence includes at least one major spoiler from a popular TV show.

Mark Zuckerberg is a busy guy. He's probably only on Season 2 of "Breaking Bad."

Example: "Want to get lunch
Don'tgetattachedtoGale?"

“ Many games will ask permission to access your entire account. ... Is it worth giving advertisers your power of attorney just so you can take a quiz to see which 'Harry Potter' character you are? That is such a Ron thing to do.

STOP BEING SO INTERESTING

I know we joined social media because we are all brilliant observational artists and need to share our beautiful snowflake minds with the world. If we keep throwing gold out into the streets of the Internet, of course someone is going to pick it up!

So just try to be a little duller. Post about minor annoyances, meals you've had, song lyrics we've all heard, your fitness goals ... stuff that nobody could possibly care about. It will be tough but I believe in you.

REMEMBER: YOU'RE IN AMERICA

You may not have rights, but corporations do!

I recommend getting a franchise logo tattooed on your face to prevent getting tagged in photos, or McDonald's arches all over your body to prevent people from lovin' your beach albums.

IF ALL ELSE FAILS, DELETE FACEBOOK, JOIN GOOGLE PLUS

No same-day registration for upcoming city election

By Leonor Vivanco | REDEYE

If you wait until Election Day to register and vote in the upcoming city election, you'll be out of luck.

So if you haven't already, register now to cast a ballot in the city election, which will be Feb. 24 for the offices of mayor, alderman in 50 wards, city clerk and treasurer as well as three citywide advisory referenda questions.

During last November's gubernatorial election, voters in Chicago and across the state had the last-minute option to stop by a polling place to register and cast a ballot on Election Day.

But same-day voter registration was done as part of a pilot program—and allowed only at select polling sites. Nearly 2,900 Chicagoans took advantage of same-day registration, the majority of them Millennials ages 18 to 34.

Same-day registration will make a comeback—just not in time for the February municipal election. In one of his last acts as governor, Pat Quinn on Jan. 10 signed legislation that makes registering on Election Day permanent. But the new law goes into effect in June.

Chicagoans who need to register to vote or update their addresses have until Jan. 27. They can do so online at chicagoelections.com or via a mail-in form that can be found on the website and printed. Would-be voters also can take care of business in person by visiting the city's election office, located at 69 W. Washington St.

For residents who miss who deadline, there's a grace period from Jan. 28 through Feb. 21 at which time they can register and vote in the same visit. Can't remember whether you're already registered? You can check that, too, online or during a visit to the city's election office.

Obama plans bigger tax on wealthy

President Obama is turning to his biggest TV audience of the year to pitch tax increases on the wealthiest Americans and put the new Republican Congress in the position of defending top income earners over the middle class.

As Obama continues to signal what he will propose during Tuesday's State of the Union address, senior administration officials said during the weekend that he will call for raising the capital gains rate on top income earners and eliminating a tax break on inheritances. The revenue generated by those changes would fund new tax credits and other cost-saving measures for middle-class taxpayers, officials said.

Tax increases are rarely welcomed by congressional Republicans, who now hold majorities in the House and the Senate for the first time in Obama's presidency. Obama's tax proposals likely will be dismissed, if not outright ignored, by lawmakers outside the Democratic Party's liberal base.

Obama also is expected to call for lawmakers to make community college free for many students, increase paid leave for workers and enact broad cybersecurity rules.

The centerpiece of the president's tax proposal is an increase in the capital gains rate on couples making more than $500,000 per year to 28 percent. It has been raised from 15 percent to 23.8 percent during Obama's presidency.

Multi-car pileups claim at least 3 lives

A pair of multi-car pileups—including one involving an estimated 30 to 50 vehicles—in icy conditions on interstates in the Philadelphia area claimed at least three lives Sunday as hundreds of crashes were reported across eastern Pennsylvania, authorities said.

Shots fired outside Bidens' Del. home

Multiple gunshots were fired from a vehicle near the Wilmington, Del., home of Vice President Joe Biden on Saturday night, the U.S. Secret Service said Sunday. The vice president and his wife were not at home at the time of the shooting, authorities said.

Missing Ky. teens captured in Florida

Dalton Hayes, 18, and his 13-year-old girlfriend, Cheyenne Phillips, sweethearts suspected in a crime spree of stolen vehicles and pilfered checks across the southern U.S., have been taken into custody in Panama City Beach, Fla., Kentucky authorities said Sunday.

See you next year?

Bears might be closer to Super Sunday than they appear

RedEye

On Monday, Bears fans get their first real glimpse at new coach John Fox when the team holds a press conference. Everyone who watches (probably) will hear his plans for the team, how he feels about the Packers, how he likes his pizza, etc.

Fox probably watched football Sunday, too—it would be weird if he didn't, considering it was the day the conference champs were determined. Here's why what he saw in the Seattle-Green Bay and New England-Indianapolis games should encourage him heading into next season.

1 Interceptions aren't a deal breaker

Seattle quarterback Russell Wilson threw four interceptions Sunday. FOUR. All while trying to hit the same target, Jermaine Kearse. And his team still won. Cutler, you might recall, once was intercepted four times in one game by DeAngelo Hall. The lesson: Deliver when it counts and all is forgiven.

2 Old can be young again

Julius Peppers, a 35-year-old former Bears defensive lineman, had 1.5 sacks for the Packers against the Seahawks to go with the one he had against Dallas the previous week. He also had seven in the regular season. If Peppers can find new life with a new team in the NFC North, so can the almost-33-year-old Jared Allen.

3 Linemen can score, too

First, Seattle offensive lineman Garry Gilliam jump-started the Seahawks' comeback by catching a touchdown pass on a fake field goal. Then the Patriots' Nate Solder caught a TD pass on a tricky play. See, the Bears were on to something with William "The Refrigerator" Perry in 1985. Kyle Long played at Oregon, a team known for high-flying offense. Maybe call his number once in a while?

4 Risk is good

Seattle running back Marshawn Lynch reportedly almost wore gold shoes against Green Bay. The Bears' Brandon Marshall, on the other hand, followed through with his plans to wear orange footwear twice and green shoes another time. Which means charity wins—Marshall is known for donating the amount of his fines to the less fortunate.

SUNDAY'S SCORES

AFC Championship:

New England 45, Indianapolis 7

NFC Championship:

Seattle 28, Green Bay 22 (OT)

SUPER BOWL XLIX

Seattle vs. New England

5:30 p.m. Feb. 1, NBC

Running the ball works

Three of the four teams that played Sunday—including the two that advanced to the Super Bowl—rushed for more than 100 yards. Fox can call plays for Matt Forte, arguably the Bears' best offensive player. You can breathe now, Coach.

STARTUP

OK, John Fox. Time to impress everyone. And yes, we hate that one song, too.

1	John Fox has so much to do now that he's the Bears' coach but don't forget about the 2015 World Series champion Cubs (see "Back to the Future Part II").	... that he should take a nap instead, and dream of the good old days when Manning was his quarterback.	... like issue a decree banning the play of "What Does The Fox Say?" on Chicago radio.	... that he doesn't even have time to put The Shop Around the Corner out of business!	Because I have so much NFL coaching experience, I say he should clean house and start fresh.
2	Who is most relieved now that the Bears have a coach?	Ted Phillips. We all forgot about him, didn't we?	Ryan Pace. Eleven days into the job and no mutiny yet. A franchise record!	Martellus Bennett. He just doesn't feel right unless he's answering to an authority figure.	John Domanico.	Probably mostly all of Chicago.
3	Who said this: "I feel like punching myself"?	Me, on MLK Day! After volunteering to take kids to Millennium Park. DOH!	John Fox.	Hopefully Floyd Mayweather. And hopefully he followed through on it.	Bill Cosby.	Rory McIlroy after he broke up with Caroline Wozniacki. No, wait, different situation.
4	Pitch clocks in baseball. Discuss.	Remember when they lit the puck during hockey games on TV?	ANYTHING to speed up— ... Oh, Jon Lester doesn't like them. Pitch clocks will ruin the American pastime!	Don't think I have enough time to analyze it. RedEye has instituted an answer clock.	More pointless than celery sticks in an order of buffalo wings.	Yes, thank you more please.
5	How did Hawks forward Teuvo Teravainen celebrate his first NHL goal?	The ol' '96-ouncer at Chicago Cut, then off to Wally World.	Brought home his report card from Coach Q, stuck it on the fridge and stayed up past midnight.	Had a neon "Teuvo Time!" sign installed above his bed.	Did a striptease like Chicago's own Dean Portman in "Mighty Ducks 3."	A virgin pina colada.

THE MOUTHWATCH

"It's a beautiful sport. There's no time limit, no shot clock ... there's no nothing. So if it's a three-hour game, it's a three-hour game. If it's a five-hour game, it's a five-hour game. There's nothing you can do to change that."

—new Cubs pitcher Jon Lester, on whether Major League Baseball should use 12-second pitch clocks. The average time pitchers held the ball between pitches in 2014 was 23 seconds, according to Fangraphs.

Robert Allenby AP

Golfer stunned after robbery

A beating and robbery left Australian golfer Robert Allenby unable to remember anything except being dumped in a gutter near a park of homeless people in Hawaii. "You think ... that happens in the movie, not real life," he said Sunday. "I'm just happy to be alive." Allenby said his wallet, cash, driver's license, PGA Tour badge and cellphone were taken. "There was a couple of hours where I was out cold," he said.

New Bears general manager Ryan Pace has hired Josh Lucas to become the team's director of player personnel. Lucas spent the last 10 seasons in the personnel department for the New Orleans Saints, the same organization Pace arrived from. Lucas is a Harvard graduate who played safety for the Crimson in the late 1990s.

FROZEN SOUNDTRACK

DON'T MISS THESE ALBUMS AND CONCERTS THIS WINTER

By Matt Pais | REDEYE

Can you believe 2015 will bring new albums from Kanye, Adele, Kendrick Lamar and Chance the Rapper? Well, don't believe it yet, since those expected albums don't have release dates at the moment. Of the records that do have confirmed release dates and the concerts on tap this winter, here are the ones on my radar. MPAIS@TRIBUNE.COM | @MATTPAIS

LOCALS

Fall Out Boy

Album: "American Beauty/American Psycho," out Tuesday
Live: Saturday at Lincoln Hall
 Several of the tracks released so far (including the disappointing "Centuries," flat "Immortals" and danceable but questionable title track) suggest this could be the chart-topping pop-rockers' first dismissible album. I really hope not.

Lupe Fiasco

Album: "Tetsuo and Youth," out Tuesday
 Will this signal the rapper's return to prominence and relevance?

K. Flay

Live: Tuesday at House of Blues
 The suburban-raised rapper deserves the attention she's earned through touring and a standout flow.

Njomza

Live: Feb. 14 at Schubas
 With the support of Mac Miller and a highly anticipated EP on the way, this pop/R&B singer and her stunning voice will be rising very soon.

Tink

Live: Feb. 21 at Metro
 Long expected to be one of the next artists to break out of Chicago, it's finally going to happen in 2015 when this Timbaland-endorsed singer/rapper releases her major-label debut.

Fall Out Boy

VETERANS

Jeff Daniels

Live: Jan. 29 at City Winery
 Let's try not to hold "Dumb and Dumber To" against the actor/singer, whose recent "Days Like These" is his sixth album. Did you know that?

Sleater-Kinney

Album: "No Cities to Love," out Tuesday
Live: Feb. 17 at Riviera Theatre
 Your reaction to the return of these acclaimed rockers—featuring Carrie Brownstein of "Portlandia"—should be a series of delicious, excited screams.

Damien Rice

Live: April 14 at Auditorium Theatre
 The Irish singer-songwriter specializes in long, sad songs. Bring a box of tissues and delight in communal woe.

George Ezra

Mandy Lee of
MisterWives

Laura Marling

Jessie
Ware

UP-AND-COMERS

Joey Bada$$

Album: "B4.DA. $$," out Tuesday
No, that's not his real last name, but the New York rapper's string of mixtapes has laid the tracks for his debut full-length to justify the name and the hype.

Natalie Prass

Album: "Natalie Prass," out Jan. 27
The R&B/pop singer's fluttering voice is exceptional, and her debut is a gorgeous, star-making effort. Listen to the single "Bird of Prey" and be hooked.

George Ezra

Album: "Wanted on Voyage," out Jan. 27
Live: Opening for Sam Smith on Friday at UIC Pavilion;

headlining March 30 at Metro.
The 21-year-old British singer-songwriter has already taken off all over the world. He should become big in the U.S. right about ... now.

Her Habits

Album: "Northerner" EP, out Jan. 27
The debut from much-buzzed Canadian singer-songwriter Joanie Wolkoff, whose bio needs to be read to be believed, "Northerner" is dreamy electro-pop excellence that will take over your body.

Will Butler

Album: "Policy" out March 10
Unlike his brother, Arcade Fire frontman Win Butler, the other Butler actually can sing. And have fun.

Tobias Jesso Jr.

Album: "Goon," out March 17
A man and his piano, singing thoughtfully and passionately, evoking heartbreak and sadness without sounding like he's about to burst into tears.

MisterWives

Album: "Our Own House," out Feb. 24

Live: March 3 at Lincoln Hall
The indie pop band's debut EP, "Reflections," is really promising. I'm ready for a full-length now.

The Hotelier

Live: April 5 at Metro
"Home, Like Noplace is There" is one of 2014's best albums you probably haven't heard. Do something about that.

UNDERRATED

Doomtree

Album: "All Hands," out Jan. 27
Live: Feb. 20 at Abbey Pub
The lesser-known Minneapolis collective that's not Rhymesayers, this group includes a bunch of great solo artists (P.O.S., Dessa, Sims) who make no sacrifices as a team.

You Blew It!

Album: "Pioneer of Nothing" EP, out Jan. 27
Live: Feb. 14 at Beat Kitchen
I arrived late to the Florida emo group's "Keep Doing What You're Doing" (which came out in January 2014), but I won't make that mistake again.

Meghan Trainor

Album: "Title," out now
Live: March 4 at House of Blues
One of the few bright spots on the radio right now, the singer/occasional rapper's debut is empowering and retro in all the right ways.

Laura Marling

Album: "Short Movie," out March 24
The 24-year-old folk singer probably couldn't make anything less than great if she tried. Incredible.

Hozier

Live: Feb. 25 at Riviera Theatre
He was one of 2014's breakout stars for good reason. The guy has a simply undeniable voice, and his self-titled debut was a keeper too.

Pentatonix

Live: March 8-9 at Chicago Theatre
Anyone still thinking that a cappella (a charge being coiled by these "Sing-Off" winners) will disappear soon needs to look around. It won't.

Jessie Ware

Live: April 6 at Metro
Yes, the British R&B singer

is widely acclaimed, but it's not enough. She deserves to be playing spots even bigger than Metro, even if the intimacy of her voice and music makes you want a private concert all for yourself.

While a sinister taxidermist (Nicole Kidman) ruthlessly seeks to acquire the titular CGI bear during “Paddington” you may think you’re watching “Ted.” Though it’s really not hard to distinguish between a mean-spirited, R-rated comedy and an incredibly charming family flick that, if it were a toy, would come in a box marked, “Recommended for ages 3-90.”

The prerequisite, though, is an appreciation for silliness and a movie that gets its laughs and lessons from places of warmth instead of noise. An example of that playful humor: A pickpocket tries to flee the scene of the crime. His GPS tells him, “In 100 yards, bear left.” He looks to the left, and there’s Paddington (voiced by Ben Whishaw of “Skyfall” and the next Bond movie, “Spectre”) soaring through the air on an umbrella. Earlier, Paddington reads that escalator users stand on the right, so he balances on his right leg. This is where you’re supposed to chuckle.

Paddington

The live-action film, based on Michael Bond’s books, involves the CGI, marmalade-loving bear—which, according to the movie, is a repetitive description, as marmalade is something all bears enjoy—leaving his home and his aunt in Peru and traveling to London.

(A detail I love: Around his neck Paddington wears a note reading, “Please look after this bear.”) There, Mrs. Brown (Sally Hawkins, Best Supporting Actress Nominee for “Blue Jasmine”) wants to bring him home, but Mr. Brown’s (Hugh Bonneville) a stick in the mud who says things like, “Seven percent of childhood accidents start with jumping.” Luckily for Paddington (and the kids who grow to adore him), mom gets her way and the Peruvian import temporarily moves into their house—where he accidentally floods the bathroom and deliberately cleans his ears with Mr. Brown’s toothbrush.

By the way, no one is fazed by a talking bear, which comes off as endearing, not absurd. This movie is sweet in all the ways garbage like “Yogi Bear” is obnoxious.

That Kidman subplot doesn’t really fit, though, seemingly included as a means to make a handful of “Mission: Impossible” references. Compared with 2011’s winning and already-slight “Winnie the Pooh,” “Paddington” feels minor, more like a rainy-day movie than one for, uh, any climate.

And yet writer-director Paul King reminds all viewers how hard it is to be the new kid and the value of respecting, not hiding from, what makes you different and special. (Plus an endorsement of science know-how that registers better than “Big Hero 6.”) In a society and a season when it’s easy to grumble and grumble some more, “Paddington” is a dose of emergency cuteness, without any of the forced sentimentality that may imply.

Carlos PenaVega, Oscar Gutierrez, David Del Rio and George Lopez in 'Spare Parts'

Puts a rusty heart in a nice, cliched machine

FAST PAISED

Matt Pais

» mpais@tribune.com
» @mattpais

Perhaps few studios are rushing to finance a documentary about a team of high school kids who took on mighty MIT in an underwater robotics competition. (If this concept starts your heart a-flutter, begin pooling your cash now.) Yet the relevant subtext of undocumented students whose opportunities are limited because of the fear of immigration officials lends tension and depth, and a doc would have brought rare perspective to a much-discussed issue.

Instead we have "Spare Parts," a dramatization of a true story that too often mimics its title through stock characters and plot points. Substitute teacher with one foot out the door who realizes he may want to stick around? Unsupportive dad who needs to realize his son has potential? Pretty single mom who provides the possibility of family-friendly romance? Check, check, check.

George Lopez (seriously) stars as Fredi Cameron, an engineer who takes a substitute science teacher gig at an Arizona high school where many students are Hispanic and half are undocumented. Soon he's mentoring a straight arrow (Carlos PenaVega), a nerd (David Del Rio), a troublemaker (Jose Julian) and a gentle giant (Oscar Javier Gutierrez II) as they combine their engineering aspirations and, uh, passion for remotely making gadgets perform tasks in a pool.

!!! Spare Parts

Hijinks involve the guys buying tampons as a means of stopping a water leak. Serious incidents include Oscar (PenaVega) becoming targeted by Immigration Customs Enforcement after attempting to enlist in the military and Lorenzo (Julian) trying to protect his younger brother. Of course, there's also time for Fredi to flirt with his "coding savant" colleague Gwen (Marisa Tomei) and Oscar to develop something with Karla (Alexa PenaVega, Carlos' real-life wife).

The most enlightening idea that results is the notion that families would treat documented children differently than undocumented ones. But director Sean McNamara and writer Elissa Matsueda, working from Josh Davis' Wired magazine article, struggle to chronicle their characters without succumbing to predictability and the needless force of a score that features sentimental music for heart-to-hearts and imposing, uplifting music for the big competition. If there's supposed to be a change in Fredi (a composite character of two real people), Lopez doesn't depict it.

So "Spare Parts" is no "Stand and Deliver," but a sweet, safe account of kids working hard and thriving because of their brains is the good kind of average.

HOROSCOPES

TAROT.COM

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19
In the long run, you will be appreciated for your ability to organize complex systems and make concrete plans. Remember that your determination will lead you to success.

Cancer June 21-July 22
You could feel misunderstood, but the harder you push for resolution, the more the distance seems to grow. Talking about your emotions helps the other person assimilate your message.

Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 18
It's tempting to overshare, negating any positive gains you've made. Your sense of urgency is based upon unnecessary fears. Give yourself more time before responding to an important phone call or sending an email.

Leo July 23-Aug. 22
Interpersonal dynamics are bent out of shape. Going silent is an even less effective way to resolve an argument. Thankfully, you have the capability to pull words out of the air as long as they're in harmony with your actions.

Pisces Feb. 19-March 20
Your instincts might not be so reliable now. Take time to reconsider your intended action is a great idea. But it's even smarter to run a decision by a trusted friend. A little objective feedback never hurt anyone.

Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22
If you recently made resolutions to improve your lifestyle, you might realize that you're on the verge of slipping. Don't judge your shortcomings as if it were a final exam.

Aries March 21-April 19
Even the best-laid social plans may fall apart as Mercury retrogrades over the next three weeks. No matter what happens, don't try to power through the change of circumstances. Work with the energy, not against it.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 22
A romantic relationship may run into troubled waters. Something you said can come back to haunt you. But rather than slipping into denial, it's healthier to acknowledge your words. Revisiting a conversation with someone special may be all that's needed.

Taurus April 20-May 20
Career objectives are due for reconsideration and Mercury's three-week retrograde kicks off a serious reevaluation of your professional goals. This is a process, not a one-day affair. Pace yourself for the best results.

Scorpio Oct. 23-Nov. 21
It might not matter how many times you go over a project; Mercury's retrograde may reveal loose ends. There's no time to get flustered even if the scope of your plans are larger and more complicated than you thought.

Gemini May 21-June 20
Your political opinions might be up for debate so try keeping an open mind. Make sure your positions on the issues support your personal beliefs. If you are consistent in your approach, you likely won't be faulted for your thinking.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21
You're distracted by someone's ingenious idea, no matter its practical merit. You might commit resources to a job that ends up being a waste of your time. Reducing everything to its simplest terms is a wise strategy.

Betty White, birthday baller

When you're turning 93—and an all-around champ—like Betty White, a dinky box of birthday doughnuts at the office just won't cut it. So the nonagenarian's "Hot in Cleveland" co-stars and crew opted for an all-out hula style flash mob to celebrate the occasion instead, enonline.com reports. In a video clip released over the weekend, actor Dave Foley drives a shocked White through pack after pack of dancing colleagues in a golf cart. "At 93, you shouldn't be doing this!" White jokes at the end of the clip.

HOT DATE MONDAY

In an effort to spark conversations about race relations, MTV will be airing all of its programming in black and white on Monday, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, the AP reports. The 12-hour broadcast also will include personal reflections on race from celebrities and officials including Pete Wentz, Jordin Sparks, Kendrick Lamar, Sen. Rand Paul, Sen. Cory Booker and "Selma" director Ava DuVernay.

76 trombones ease on down the road?

We've already seen Carrie Underwood try—not very successfully—to liven up the hills and Allison Williams banter with a creepy CGI Tinkerbell, so who should we be expecting for this year's live NBC extravaganza? According to Entertainment Weekly, the network has narrowed down their next televised musical to 1957's "The Music Man" or 1975's "The Wiz." "The Music Man" already had its Matthew Broderick remake back in 2003, so we're leaning toward "The Wiz," but we demand Beyonce play Diana Ross' character or we're NOT watching.

THE QUOTE

"I was temporarily insane"

—former Olympic wrestler Mark Schultz, on Twitter Saturday, apologizing for a previous rant against "Foxcatcher." Schultz, who is played by Channing Tatum in the Oscar-nominated film about his and his brother's lives, blasted the movie and its director on social media last month.

THE DIGIT $90.2 MILLION

Talk about a nice shot. Military drama and Oscar contender "American Sniper" hit $90.2 million at the box office in its wide-release debut weekend, Variety reports, putting the film on track to break box office records for the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday weekend and the month of January.
